Tuesday 2 November 2021: The Royal Academy of Dance today announces its new art competition for primary schools from Battersea and across the Wandsworth Borough.

Launched to celebrate what will be a momentous year for the internationally renowned dance education organisation with the opening of its brand-new global headquarters in Spring next year – entrants are asked to submit a drawing or painting inspired by dance and how it makes them feel.

Designed to inspire children from across local schools to engage with the borough's historic and deep-rooted connection to the world of dance; primary schools in the borough are invited to submit digital images of their students' work for a chance to win the top prize, a personalized dance workshop at RAD for the whole class, along with a special tour of the new purpose-built Academy and other goodies. The winning entry and runners up will be picked by a judging panel of RAD President Dame Darcey Bussell and Artistic Director, Gerard Charles and former dancer Shevelle Dynott to be exhibited in the new building when it opens formally next year.

RAD is a global organisation with 100 years of experience and a mission to inspire the world to dance. The Academy is committed to making their new headquarters a home for dance, for all. The RAD's community engagement plan seeks to make programmes, projects, and facilities physically and financially accessible to the local community, young and old and a new 193-seat theatre will enable the organisation to share a wide range of dance performances locally.

Gerard Charles Artistic Director, Royal Academy of Dance says: "We are delighted to launch the very first borough-wide RAD art competition, inviting pupils across Wandsworth to get creative, inspired by the feeling they have when they dance or when they see dance, in any form. Wandsworth is a large and diverse borough, and it is important that we understand what dance means to them. Our youngest residents could be the dancers, choreographers, teachers and artistic directors of the future”

Dame Darcey Bussell, President, Royal Academy of Dance says: “Dance is connected to every art form, and at this exciting moment in the RAD’s history we wanted to launch our first ever art competition created especially for schoolchildren across the borough. The panel of judges are so looking forward to what our young budding artists are inspired to create.”

The competition launches as the RAD is just steps away from meeting its £19.5m capital fundraising target for its new global headquarters in Battersea, launching in Spring 2022. The new building will become an international home for dance, allowing the charity to realise the potential of the 60,000 sq ft headquarters to expand on its 100-year history of high-quality dance education to bring the transformational power of dance to more people, regardless of age, ability, or location.

The winning artwork will be exhibited in the new global Headquarters once open, continuing the RAD’s commitment to be a home for dance for all.

She was promoted to Principal in 1989, aged just 20, after the premiere of Kenneth MacMillan's The Prince of the Pagodas, in which she had created the lead role. Darcey retired from the Company in June 2007 with a performance of MacMillan's Song of the Earth, broadcast live on BBC2. She came out of retirement to dance the 'Spirit of the Flame' at the 2012 London Olympics closing ceremony.

Darcey's extensive broadcast work includes being a judge on Strictly Come Dancing, many documentaries for the BBC and she has presented The Royal Ballet's worldwide cinema relays since 2014. She remains a Guest principal coach at The Royal Ballet and is Artist Laureate of the Royal Ballet School.

About Shevelle Dynott

Shevelle Dynott was born in London and started dancing aged seven when he was spotted at his Brixton primary school by scouts for 'Chance to Dance', a scheme which aimed to scout talented inner-city children and expand ballet's reach beyond its traditionally white middle-class base. In 1997, he was the first child to complete the 'Chance to Dance' training and be accepted on the Royal Ballet School's Junior Associates programme. In 2004 Shevelle won a bronze medal in the RAD's Genée International Ballet Competition and upon completing his training in 2005, Dynott joined the English National Ballet as a company artist and has appeared in numerous productions: Akram Khan's Giselle Nureyev's Romeo and Juliet Macmillan's Sleeping Beauty.
